

Grown-ups Receive Taste of 'Back-to-School'

ALLAMBIE, March 11/Northern Beaches Hospitality/- Northern Beaches Hospitality, the Northern Beaches' newest corporate and private caterer, is offering customers in the Allambie, Allambie Heights, and surrounding business areas something they probably haven't enjoyed for at least 10 years- a lunch order.

Delivered with a touch of nostalgia via a brown paper bag, customers are given the chance order up until 9pm for delivery the next day, with an ever-changing sandwich and salad featured daily. Sandwich fillings are kept up to date with the seasons, whilst salads reflect healthy trends regularly feature raw and 'super' food inspiration in ingredients and dressings.

"We believe workers in these large business parks are not spoilt for choice when it comes to a healthy, convenient lunch", says Northern Beaches Hospitality Director, Paul Fielding. "Enjoying fresh made salads and sandwiches delivered to their office can save up to 30 minutes off a typical worker's lunch break, whilst offering the chance to eat healthily from their desk when under the pump."

The Northern Beaches catering company aims to achieve high levels of customer service, feedback and engagement, with orders taken online via email, Facebook and Twitter. "People rightfully demand service when they want it these days, and our 'canteen' concept is only part of our philosophy to go above and beyond in customer service delivery. It's pretty simple really- if a customer wants something, we'll give it to them, and social media is a good way of communicating."

Workers can enjoy a sandwich and drink delivered for $10, or a salad and drink for $12.
